

I've heard there was a secret chord
That David played, and it pleased the Lord
But you don't really care for music, do you?
Well it goes like this
The fourth, the fifth
The minor fall, the major lift
The baffled king composing Hallelujah

Well your faith was strong but you needed proof
You saw her bathing on the roof
Her beauty in the moonlight overthrew you
Well she tied you to her kitchen chair
She broke your throne, and she cut your hair
And from your lips she drew the Hallelujah

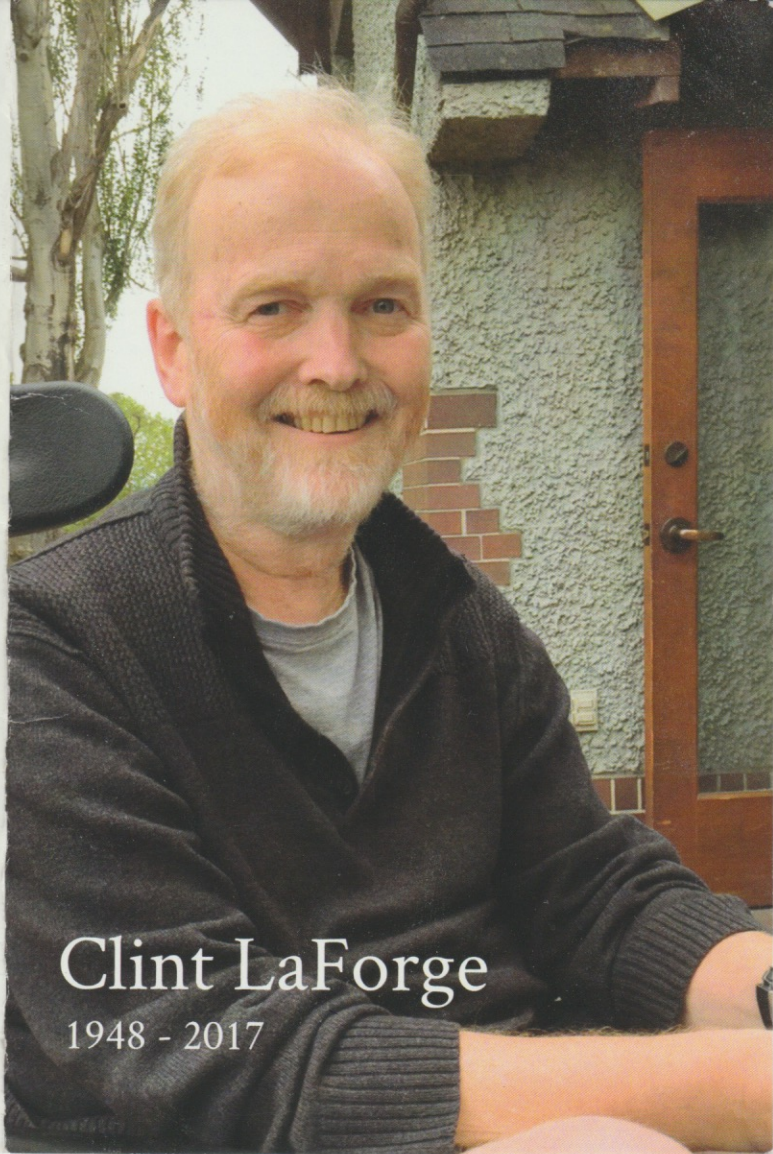

Baby I've been here before
I've seen this room and I've walked the floor
I used to live alone before I knew you
I've seen your flag on the marble arch
And love is not a victory march
It's a cold and it's a broken Hallelujah

Well there was a time when you let me know
What's really going on below
But now you never show that to me do ya
But remember when I moved in you
And the holy dove was moving too
And every breath we drew was Hallelujah

Maybe there's a God above
But all I've ever learned from love
Was how to shoot somebody who outdrew you
It's not a cry that you hear at night
It's not someone who's seen the light
It's a cold and it's a broken Hallelujah

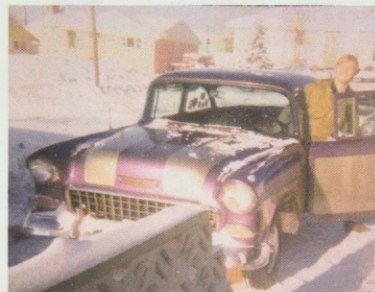

Clint LaForge

1948 - 2017

James Clinton LaForge, 68, of Vancouver, passed away at 3:20AM on Thursday July 13, 2017 at The Cottage Hospice in Vancouver, British Columbia from a rare lung cancer after living and loving life fully to the very end. His wife Cindy and son Jeff were there with him to support his passing.

Clint was born December 1948 in Dawson Creek, British Columbia to Jim and Evelyn LaForge. He married Cindy Sheppard in July 1980 and she survives. Also surviving are his son, Jeff LaForge, two sisters, Carol (Russ) Airhart and Julie (Dennis) Malkinson, one brother, Bill (Kate) LaForge, one brother-in-law, Alan Moi and numerous nephews and nieces. Clint's father James Russel LaForge, mother Evelyn Charlotte LaForge, and eldest sister Sharon preceded him in death.

In his hometown of Tupper in northern BC, Clint is remembered fondly. Stories of his love of cars - screeching out of town with gravel flying...only to return hours later with his car on a flat deck truck. As an adult, Clint was a resident of the Cambie neighbourhood in the city of Vancouver where he moved in his early twenties to attend

BCIT. Following graduation, Clint was hired on at Triumph - Canada's national laboratory for particle and nuclear physics - where he worked many jobs incomprehensible to his son (beam line technician?) for his 40+ year career, right up until he passed.

At a Triumph Christmas party in 1974 Clint met the love of his life, Cindy Sheppard, dancing up a storm and offering her a ride home. In 1980 they married, and in 1985 they had a beautiful baby boy, James Jeffrey LaForge. As Jeff grew up, Clint donated many hours to coaching minor league hockey, patiently teaching kids to skate and play nice. Many blissfully happy summers were spent as a family on the Sunshine Coast in the cabin Clint built on Sakinaw Lake.
